Closing with a smile...

Puns by Karthik Narayanan, London

An eager Vedanta student started Upanishad class. An ardent note-taker, she furiously started taking notes in the class. After some time her hand started paining. Visiting a few orthopedic doctors for the hand pain yielded no result. Then Swamiji referred her to one fellow-Vedanta doctor, Dr. Devadatta, a hand specialist. When the student visited Devadatta, and gave Swamiji's reference, his eyes immediately lit up.

Doctor: Oh hand pain? Kai vali?

Student: Yes

Doctor: Are you taking notes?

Student: Yes

Doctor: Are you attending Swamiji's classes?

Student: Yes

With a big smile on his face the Doctor said: Don't worry! This hand pain will go on its own. It's a side-effect of the Kaivali-ya Upanishad class you are attending. (kai vali in Tamil is hand pain).
