Q) Which contemporary spiritual teacher, affectionately known as 'X', embarked on a unique journey from the corridors of a convent school to the profound depths of Vedanta under the guidance of 'Y' and 'Z'? Despite a non-religious family where 'X' was born in, 'X's early inclination towards Christianity set the stage for a quest for the divine. However, finding themselves at a crossroads with the teachings of Jiddu Krishnamurti, 'X' turned to the "scientific study of mind" in a bid to understand humans, if not God. 'X' started studying Vedanta with 'Z' while balancing work commitments. In a delightful twist of fate and persistence, 'X' was admitted into a special course months behind schedule, under the tutelage of 'Y', a luminary in the realm of Vedanta. Initially, 'Y' had deemed the course unnecessary for them, recognizing 'X's clear and inherent vision..

Who might 'X' be, and who played the role of 'Y' and 'Z' in this enlightening tale?
